

I am pleased to write this recommendation in support of (FULL NAME) and his intention to apply for a master's programme. I have known (NAME) since the second year of his bachelor's studies in Finance and Credits at the Russian Economic University named after G.V. Plekhanov in Moscow, Russia. He attended several courses and seminars I have conducted, including Corporate Finance, Pricing Strategies, and Company Operational Efficiency Management. (NAME) has shown himself to be a diligent and disciplined student, able to assimilate and analyze large and complex amounts of information.

Under my supervision, (NAME) defended his coursework on the subject of Corporate Finance. While working on the paper, he demonstrated a deep understanding of the inner-workings of the Amazon company and adeptly performed various analysis techniques, including Swot, Pestle, Porter's five forces, ratio, relative valuation, and building DCF models. Furthermore, he became familiar with a raft of resources, such as Thomson Reuters Eikon, most of which were written in English. As a result, his course paper received a grade of 85 (out of 100).

Noteworthy is (NAME)'s ability to receive constructive criticism. One such instance was witnessed when I criticized his Corporate Finance coursework. In response, (NAME) approached me to clarify the details about building a DCF model, as well as to consult on the indicators he had chosen. I answered all of his questions with pleasure, and as a result, (NAME) correctly built the DCF model during his term paper defense, correcting his mistakes within the indicator descriptions.

It is worth noting that (NAME), in addition to his usual studies at the university, underwent a six-month internship in China during his seventh semester, where he also studied Economics and Finance. This fact alone characterizes (NAME) as a motivated student willing to broaden his horizons and face challenges. Overall, he gained international experience in the financial field, graduating with excellent grades. The seventh semester is one of the most difficult and stressful for exchange students, given that they have to close the session for the sixth semester in addition to their workload for the upcoming semester. During the sixth semester, (NAME) missed my Pricing Strategies course in preparation for the exchange program. Despite all of the difficulties faced, he redeemed himself by completing all of the necessary work on time and preparing for the exam, in turn successfully passing the course.

I wholeheartedly recommend (NAME) for your programme. I am sure that with his immense interest in corporate finance, eye for detail, and analytical thinking, he is capable of showing brilliant results and succeeding in his studies and professional career.
